

Atlas Ambassador Training Guide

Creator Sponsorship, Community Outreach, and Sports Intelligence Growth Playbook

Internal Training Manual | AtlasSports.AI Ambassador Program

Core Idea

Atlas is not for everyone. The goal is to find people who already care about sports, props, slips, projections, analytics, and AI-driven insight - then show them why AtlasSports.AI is worth checking out.

Use this guide to find the right audiences, approach creators professionally, present Atlas as a legitimate sponsorship opportunity, and protect the brand while growing real paid customer signups.

Important: AtlasSports.AI is an informational and statistical analysis platform. Ambassadors must never describe Atlas as a sportsbook or promise guaranteed outcomes.

! How to Use This Manual

This guide is designed as a repeatable operating system. Ambassadors should follow the qualification rules, contact routes, platform playbooks, and tracking standards before sending outreach. The goal is professional, measurable growth - not random link dropping.

SECTION 01

Atlas Mission, Positioning, and Audience Niches

The Mission

AtlasSports.AI is built to give sports-minded users a smarter way to evaluate props, slips, player stats, probability, and model-backed sports intelligence. Atlas is not positioned as a sportsbook and it does not promise guaranteed outcomes. The brand message is simple: stop guessing, understand the board, and use data to make more informed decisions.

Ambassadors are not just selling a promo code. They are introducing a platform that combines simulation, machine learning calibration, optimized slip construction, player-level analysis, and a creator-friendly sponsorship system. The ambassador role is to find people who already care about those ideas and help them understand why Atlas is worth checking out.

Core Positioning

Atlas is for people who already care about props, slips, projections, fantasy sports, sports analytics, and AI-driven insight. The goal is not to convert random people into sports analysts. The goal is to find the people who already speak the language and give them a better tool.

What Atlas Does

Product Pillar	How Ambassadors Should Explain It
Monte Carlo Simulation	Atlas runs repeated simulations to evaluate player and stat outcomes. Explain this as model-backed scenario testing, not guesswork.
Machine Learning Calibration	Atlas calibrates model outputs against historical outcomes so users can see more than raw trends.
Optimized Slip Selection	Atlas is designed to help users evaluate multi-leg combinations by balancing probability, expected value, and portfolio logic.
Daily Picks and Slips	Atlas gives users daily output and lets members see deeper model details, confidence, probability, EV, and full-board ranking.

Creator and Sponsor Network	Atlas can give creators custom codes, sponsor placement, tracked performance, and a structured business plan around their audience.
Roadmap Expansion	NBA is live, with MLB, NFL, the AtlasSportsAI app, and AI-powered workflows on the roadmap as the product matures.

The Best Niches to Target

Do not target "sports betting people" as one big audience. Split the market into clear sub-niches so the outreach feels relevant and specific. Every message should sound like it was written for that person, their platform, and their audience.

Niche	Why It Fits Atlas	Best Initial Angle
Player Prop Users	They already care about player stats, lines, projections, and confidence.	Atlas helps compare props using simulations, probability, confidence, and model-backed analysis.
Parlay / Slip Builders	They already think in combinations and multi-leg outcomes.	Atlas helps users evaluate smarter combinations instead of randomly stacking legs.
DFS and Fantasy Sports Users	They understand projections, lineup logic, player matchups, and weekly research.	Atlas gives them a model-driven way to evaluate players, stats, and matchups.
Sports Analytics People	They care about data, models, variance, calibration, and process quality.	Atlas is for people who want more than vibes: simulation, calibration, and data-backed sports intelligence.
Streamers and Creators	They have trust, audience attention, and repeat exposure.	Atlas can sponsor their channel and give them fixed-fee potential plus code upside.

Community Owners	Discords, Facebook groups, fantasy leagues, and newsletters can move many users at once.	Atlas can offer a group code, sponsor placement, and a clean community partnership.
Coaches / Trainers / Athletes	They may be interested in performance and sports intelligence, but usually convert more slowly.	Atlas is building AI-powered sports intelligence that can scale beyond picks into performance-oriented workflows.

What Ambassadors Should Avoid

- Do not lead with guaranteed wins, locks, free money, or risk-free language.
- Do not position Atlas as a sportsbook or gambling operator.
- Do not target audiences that appear underage or primarily youth-focused for betting-adjacent content.
- Do not spam links in chats, Discords, comments, Reddit threads, or Facebook groups.
- Do not chase follower count alone. Audience fit and trust matter more.
- Do not pressure creators after they decline or ignore outreach.

SECTION 02

Platform-by-Platform Sponsor Playbook

Section 2 is not about spamming comments, blasting cold DMs, or asking creators to push Atlas for free. The job of an Atlas ambassador is to identify creators and communities whose audiences already care about props, slips, fantasy, sports analytics, and data-backed decision-making, then present a legitimate paid sponsorship opportunity with clear deliverables, clear compensation, and professional follow-up.

Core Operating Rule

Official marketplace first. Public business email second. Warm DM third. Phone never first unless the creator publicly lists phone as the preferred business contact. Getting past gates means finding the correct public business route - not bypassing platform rules, spamming, or forcing contact.

What Changed From the Old Approach

A streamer, creator, or community owner is not usually looking for another affiliate code. They are evaluating whether Atlas is a real paid opportunity, whether the brand is trustworthy, whether the audience fit makes sense, and whether the compensation is worth their time. Ambassadors should present Atlas as a structured sponsor campaign, not a vague "use my code" request.

- Do not lead with "help us promote." Lead with "paid creator pilot" or "sponsor partnership" when Atlas is prepared to offer a fixed fee.
- Do not ask creators to shill. Offer a business plan: deliverables, payout, code tracking, disclosure, proof of delivery, and renewal path.
- Do not rely only on social DMs. Start with creator marketplaces, business emails, media kits, websites, and official contact forms.
- Do not look like a scammer. Use a real Atlas identity, a real signature, an official domain, and a short, transparent ask.

The Atlas Sponsorship Offer

There are two different offers ambassadors may discuss. The first is an ambassador or affiliate offer. The second is a true creator sponsorship. Streamers usually care about monetary gain and audience value, so the sponsorship offer should be framed like a business opportunity with base pay plus performance upside.

Offer Type	How to Position It
Affiliate / Ambassador	No fixed fee. Creator gets a custom code, 25% of paid subscription sales tied to the code, milestone bonuses, and possible website sponsor placement.
Paid Pilot Sponsorship	Atlas-approved fixed campaign fee plus 25% code upside. Best for creators with a real audience, consistent content, and a clear deliverable plan.
Ongoing Creator Sponsorship	Monthly or recurring fixed fee plus 25% code upside, recurring mentions, panel or bio placement, community posts, and performance reporting.
Premium Sponsor Package	Custom fixed fee, code upside, milestone bonuses, possible content reuse rights, sponsor-page placement, and a renewal path after performance review.

Important Compensation Rule

Ambassadors should not promise a flat fee unless Atlas has approved the creator, budget, and deliverables. It is fine to say Atlas is open to paid pilots, fixed fees, and hybrid deals. It is not okay to quote a guaranteed dollar amount without approval.

Global Code Payout Structure

$20/month customer signup = $5 payout to the creator

$100/year customer signup = $25 payout to the creator

Payout basis = 25% of paid subscription sales connected to the creator code

Sponsor/affiliate tracking = unique promo code or referral link

Payment setup = Stripe or approved payout workflow through the Atlas portal

Milestone Bonuses

25 valid paid customers = $100 bonus

100 valid paid customers = $500 bonus

250 valid paid customers = $1,500 bonus

1,000 valid paid customers = $5,000 bonus

2,000 valid paid customers = $10,000 bonus

Every additional 500 valid paid customers after 2,000 = $2,500 bonus

Streamer Business Plan: What Atlas Can Offer

When approaching streamers, ambassadors should explain that Atlas is not asking for free promotion. Atlas can structure a campaign that gives the streamer a reason to care and gives Atlas measurable results.

Campaign Component	What It Means
Fixed fee	A pre-approved payment for completing agreed deliverables. This protects the creator from working for free.
Code upside	25% payout on paid subscription sales tied to the creator code. This gives the creator long-tail upside during the campaign window.
Milestone bonuses	Additional bonuses for creators who drive real paid customer volume.

Deliverables	Specific actions such as a live read, panel placement, chat command, Discord post, short-form clip, or pinned link.
Proof of delivery	Creator provides clip, screenshot, VOD timestamp, post link, or campaign report after the deliverable is completed.
Renewal path	If the creator drives quality traffic, Atlas can renew or upgrade the partnership.

Approved Deliverable Ideas

- One live sponsor read during a sports, DFS, fantasy, or props-focused stream.
- A Twitch/Kick panel or YouTube description link with the Atlas code.
- A chat command such as !atlas that explains the code and link.
- A short explanation of what Atlas does and why the audience may care.
- A Discord announcement in the creator community, if the creator owns or controls the server.
- A short TikTok, YouTube Short, X post, or Instagram Reel explaining the partnership.
- A VOD timestamp, clip, screenshot, or post URL showing the sponsor placement was delivered.

Qualified Prospect Scorecard

Before contacting a creator, ambassadors should score the prospect. Do not chase follower count alone. A smaller creator with a loyal sports audience can be more valuable than a large account with weak engagement.

Score Area	What to Check
Audience fit	Does the audience care about sports, props, fantasy, DFS, analytics, or betting-adjacent discussion?
Content consistency	Does the creator post or stream regularly enough for a campaign to matter?
Engagement quality	Does the audience comment, chat, ask questions, and respond to creator recommendations?

Contactability	Is there a business email, media kit, website, sponsorship page, or official marketplace profile?
Compliance risk	Does the creator avoid guaranteed-win language, underage audiences, shady claims, and spammy behavior?

Best Target Profile

Small-to-mid creators with a real sports audience, active chat or comments, clear contact information, and a history of professional content are often better targets than huge creators who are hard to reach and expensive to activate.

Gate-Passing Sequence

1. Check official creator marketplaces or sponsorship dashboards first.
2. Check the creator profile for a business email, media kit, website, sponsor page, or contact form.
3. Check linked social profiles from the bio, panels, About page, or Link-in-Bio page.
4. If only DM is available, warm the account first and keep the DM short.
5. Ask where to send the one-page paid partnership brief instead of dumping the full pitch in the first message.
6. If no legitimate route exists, move on rather than forcing contact.

! Anti-Scam Rule

Creators are hit constantly with fake sponsorships, phishing links, bot messages, and scam offers. Atlas outreach must be short, specific, transparent, and verifiable. Never send suspicious attachments, never ask for passwords or login access, never use fake urgency, and never hide who you are.

Official Marketplaces and Sponsorship Dashboards

Platform / Surface	How Ambassadors Should Use It
Streamlabs Sponsorships	Use for streamer campaigns where Atlas can act as an advertiser and creators opt into paid opportunities. Strong fit for Twitch creators.
Twitch Sponsorships / Creator Profiles	Prioritize creators who are professionally open to sponsorships and have clear audience/channel information.
YouTube Creator Partnerships	Use for YouTube creators with business emails, media kits, desired rates, and brand-deal workflows.
TikTok One / Creator Marketplace	Use for short-form creator campaigns, open opportunities, flat-fee projects, and revenue-share campaigns.
Creator websites and media kits	Often the best route for serious creators. Ask for the rate card or media kit before negotiating.
Business email or contact form	Use before DM whenever available. Email is easier to track, verify, and turn into a written agreement.

Twitch Playbook

Twitch is best for live integrations, sponsor reads, community Q&A, sports talk, DFS discussion, and creators whose chat actually listens to them. Do not start by spamming chat or whispering every creator. Research first, then use the public business route.

Twitch Step	Action
Where to look	Sports, Just Chatting, NBA 2K, Madden, MLB The Show, fantasy football, sports talk, watch-party-adjacent, DFS or props discussion.
What to inspect	About panels, social links, Discord links, website, Linktree, sponsor panels, stream schedule, chat activity, recent VODs.
Preferred route	Business email, website form, linked X/Instagram, Discord owner contact, or official sponsorship dashboard. Whisper only if no better route exists.
Best offer angle	Paid pilot sponsorship: fixed fee on completed deliverables plus 25% code upside and milestone bonuses.
Deliverables	Live read, !atlas command, panel placement, one Discord post, tracked code, VOD timestamp, and optional clip.
Do not do	Do not pitch in chat during a stream, spam whispers, ask for account access, or send unexplained links.

Twitch Search Recipes

Twitch Message Template

Hi [Name], I am [Your Name] with AtlasSports.AI. I found your stream through [specific stream/category], and your audience looks like a strong fit for a paid sports-intelligence sponsor pilot. Atlas can structure the campaign with a fixed fee, tracked code/link upside, clear deliverables, and sponsor-page placement. If you are open to paid partnerships, where should I send the one-page brief or rate-card request?

Kick Playbook

Kick works best when the creator has a chat-driven audience and a profile that links to socials, Discord, or a business contact. Kick creators often use panels and profile links, so the research path is similar to Twitch but the contact route may be more dependent on linked socials.

Kick Step	Action
Where to look	Sports talk, Just Chatting, gaming creators who discuss sports, fantasy football, NBA/NFL/MLB conversations, DFS-adjacent channels.
What to inspect	Profile bio, panels, social usernames, Discord links, recent categories, clips, VODs, chat behavior.
Preferred route	Linked social profile, creator website, business email, Discord business channel, or public contact form.
Best offer angle	A paid live-stream sponsor moment with code upside and a transparent disclosure requirement.
Deliverables	Live mention, panel link, chat command, Discord post, code callout graphic, and proof of delivery.
Do not do	Do not self-promote in chat, bypass mods, or approach underage-looking/mature-risk channels without review.

Google: site:kick.com "Underdog"

Google: site:kick.com "fantasy football" "Kick"

Google: "[Kick handle]" "business" OR "sponsor" OR "email"

YouTube Playbook

YouTube should be treated as an email-first platform. It is ideal for long-form explanation, Shorts, live streams, pinned comments, descriptions, and creator media kits. The goal is to find creators who already produce sports picks, fantasy advice, DFS content, or sports analytics and then ask for their business contact or rate card.

YouTube Step	Action
Where to look	Channels posting sports picks, DFS breakdowns, fantasy football advice, NBA props, MLB props, NFL props, betting education, sports analytics.
What to inspect	About page, business inquiry email, description links, media kit, sponsor mentions, subscriber count, average views, upload consistency.
Preferred route	Business inquiry email from About page, website contact form, media kit contact, or Creator Partnerships if available.
Best offer angle	Paid integration with code upside: sponsor read, description link, pinned comment, and optional Short.
Deliverables	30-60 second sponsor read, pinned link/code, description placement, one Short, livestream mention, proof link.
Do not do	Do not leave a public comment that reads like spam. Comments should be smart, short, and non-promotional unless asked.

Hi [Name],

I am [Your Name] with AtlasSports.AI. I found your channel through your video on [specific video/topic]. Your audience looks like a strong fit for a paid sports-intelligence campaign around props, slips, and model-backed analysis. We are placing creator pilots with a fixed campaign fee, tracked code/link upside, clear deliverables, disclosure requirements, and written payment terms. If you are open to paid partnerships, can I send a one-page brief or review your rate card/media kit?

TikTok Playbook

TikTok is valuable for discovery and short-form awareness, but it should not be used for spray-and-pray comments. TikTok creators should be approached through TikTok One/Creator Marketplace when available, through their link-in-bio or social links second, and through short warm DMs only when no better contact route exists.

TikTok Step	Action
Where to look	PrizePicks creators, Underdog creators, player-prop content, daily pick videos, DFS tips, fantasy football, sports reactions, sports analytics clips.
What to inspect	Bio link, linked Instagram/YouTube/X, Linktree/Beacons, email in bio, posting frequency, comments, audience tone.
Preferred route	TikTok One/Creator Marketplace, bio link, email, website, or linked social. DM only to ask where to send the brief.

Best offer angle	Short-form paid creator partnership with code upside and milestone bonuses.
Deliverables	One TikTok video, one story/repost if available, bio link during campaign window, code mention, and proof link.
Do not do	Do not comment "DM us for a deal" under random videos. Do not ask creators to click unknown links in the first message.

X / Twitter Playbook

X is best for finding active voices, fantasy/DFS conversations, injury news accounts, prop discussion, and creators who link to larger platforms. It is usually a warming and discovery layer, not the final place to close the sponsorship.

X Step	Action
Where to look	Prop accounts, DFS accounts, fantasy football accounts, lineup news, injury reports, sports analytics, creators linking to YouTube/Twitch/Kick.
What to inspect	Bio links, Professional Account contact methods, pinned posts, link to newsletter/Discord/YouTube, recent engagement.
Preferred route	Public email, website, media kit, DM if open, or linked platform business contact.
Best offer angle	Audience-fit sponsorship brief with paid pilot option and code upside.
Deliverables	X post, pinned post during campaign, link/code thread, repost of Atlas graphic, or warm handoff to a larger platform integration.
Do not do	Do not reply-spam links under picks. Use replies to show knowledge, then move to business contact.

X / Twitter Search Recipes

Words: PrizePicks OR Underdog

Exact phrase: "NBA props" or "MLB props" or "NFL props"

Hashtags: #FantasyFootball, #NBATwitter, #DFS, #PlayerProps

Discord Playbook

Discord should be treated as a community partnership channel. Do not cold-pitch random members. The target is the server owner, admin, partnership manager, or creator who controls the community. Atlas should offer a server-level partnership, not random self-promo.

Discord Step	Action
Where to find servers	Creator bios, YouTube descriptions, Twitch panels, Kick profiles, X bios, Linktree pages, fantasy/DFS community links.
What to inspect	Rules, partnership channel, mod list, announcement style, activity level, age/compliance tone, whether paid promo is allowed.
Preferred route	Partnership ticket, modmail equivalent, business channel, owner/admin DM after permission, or creator business email.
Best offer angle	Server-level sponsor partnership: custom group code, code upside, possible fixed fee, feature on Atlas sponsor page.
Deliverables	Announcement, pinned resource, live Q&A, community analysis session, creator read, code link, performance report.
Do not do	Do not DM multiple mods, post links without permission, or join only to promote.

Hey [Name], I am [Your Name] with AtlasSports.AI. I like what you are building here and wanted to ask the right way instead of posting randomly. Atlas is an AI-driven sports intelligence platform, and we are exploring paid community partnerships for sports/DFS/fantasy audiences. We can set up a custom code, 25% payout on paid signups tied to the code, possible fixed-fee sponsor activation after review, and sponsor placement on our site. Who handles partnerships for this server?

Reddit Playbook

Reddit is not a primary recruitment platform for ambassadors or paid creator deals. Use Reddit for audience research, language mining, subreddit mapping, and moderator-approved educational participation. If Atlas wants Reddit distribution at scale, use Reddit Ads or transparent moderator-approved posts, not covert promotion.

Reddit Step	Action
Where to look	Sports analytics, fantasy sports, DFS, NBA/NFL/MLB discussion, player-prop education, responsible betting discussion.
What to inspect	Subreddit rules, self-promotion rules, modmail instructions, posting history, whether links or brand posts are allowed.
Preferred route	Modmail or listed moderator process. Do not message random users with paid promo offers.
Best use	Research what users care about, collect objections, learn keywords, and request permission for educational content if appropriate.
Good content angle	Educational breakdowns such as "trends vs simulations vs matchup context" or "how to think about player props responsibly."
Do not do	Do not compensate people to stealth-promote Atlas on Reddit. Do not link dump. Do not pretend to be a neutral user.

Read rules before posting anything branded

Reddit Message Template

Hi mods, I am [Your Name] with AtlasSports.AI. I wanted to ask before posting anything promotional. We are an AI-driven sports intelligence platform and would like to share an educational post about [topic] if it fits the rules. If branded links or sponsor content are not allowed, no problem. I wanted to check the correct process first.

Facebook Groups and Instagram Reels

Facebook Groups and Instagram can be useful secondary channels, especially for fantasy sports, sports parents, coaches, local leagues, trainers, and older DFS audiences. Treat them like community channels: admin permission first, value second, promotion third.

Platform	Best Use
Facebook Groups	Fantasy football groups, DFS groups, sports-parent communities, local sports groups, coach/trainer communities. Ask admins before posting.
Instagram Reels	Short creator promos, sports graphics, sponsor announcements, behind-the-scenes clips, and creator discovery through bios.
Contact route	Admin message, business email in bio, Link-in-Bio, creator website, or DMs asking for the best business email.
Do not do	Do not paste links into groups without permission. Do not DM every group member. Do not use guaranteed-win language.

Facebook Admin Message

Hi [Name], I am [Your Name] with AtlasSports.AI. I wanted to ask before posting. Atlas is an AI-driven sports intelligence platform, and we are looking for sports/fantasy communities to partner with through custom group codes, paid signup upside, and possible sponsor placement.

Would you be open to reviewing a one-page partnership brief or letting me know your group rules for sponsor posts?

How to Find the Right Contact Without Looking Like a Bot

1. Start on the creator profile. Look for About pages, panels, bios, sponsor links, business email, media kit, Discord, website, Linktree, Beacons, or contact form.
2. Search the creator handle plus "business email", "sponsor", "media kit", "rate card", "partnership", "contact", or "management".
3. Check linked YouTube, X, Instagram, Twitch, Kick, and website pages. Many creators put business contact information on one platform but not another.
4. If the creator lists an agency or manager, contact the manager first.
5. If only social DM is available, send a short permission-based message asking where to send the paid brief.
6. If the creator ignores the message, follow up once after 3-5 days and then move on.

Anti-Scam Positioning for Atlas Outreach

- Use an official Atlas email domain whenever possible, not a random personal email for serious creator partnerships.
- Make sure Atlas email sending is authenticated with SPF, DKIM, and DMARC before scaling outbound email.
- Use a real name, real title, and consistent signature.
- Mention the creator specifically and reference their actual content.
- Say it is paid if it is paid. Say there is a fixed-fee pilot if Atlas is willing to consider one.
- Do not include attachments in the first message unless requested.
- Do not use URL shorteners in first contact. Use a clean official AtlasSports.AI link.
- Do not ask for passwords, logins, Twitch access, YouTube access, Discord admin access, crypto, deposits, or sensitive personal information.
- Ask for permission to send the one-page brief or ask for their rate card/media kit.

What Makes Atlas Look Legitimate

A real person, a real company domain, a specific reason for contacting the creator, a clear paid structure, no pressure, no attachments, a written agreement, and a simple next step.

Hi [Name], quick follow-up on the AtlasSports.AI sponsor pilot. No pressure at all. If paid partnerships are open, I can send the one-page brief or review your rate card/media kit. If not a fit, I completely understand.

Compliance and Brand Guardrails

- No guaranteed-win language.
- No "lock of the day", "free money", "risk-free", or "guaranteed profit" claims.
- No underage audience targeting for betting-adjacent content.
- No pretending Atlas is a sportsbook or gambling operator.
- No hidden paid relationships. Use clear sponsor/affiliate disclosure language.
- No scraping contact information or mass messaging through unauthorized tools.
- No harassment, repeated messages, or pressure after a creator declines.
- Use platform branded-content tools when required by the creator platform.
- All deliverables, payment terms, code tracking, and content usage rights should be written down before a paid campaign begins.

Safe Atlas Positioning

AtlasSports.AI is an AI-driven sports intelligence platform for people who already care about props, slips, projections, analytics, and data-backed decision-making. The message is not "guaranteed wins." The message is "use data instead of guessing."

Section 2 Bottom Line

Creators and streamers need a reason to believe Atlas is real, worth their time, and financially clear. The ambassador role is to find the right audience, use the correct business route, present Atlas as a structured sponsorship opportunity, and make the next step easy. When in doubt, lead with professionalism: clear compensation, clear deliverables, clear disclosure, and a respectful ask.

SECTION 03

Prospect Qualification and Target Prioritization

Ambassadors should target people with audience plus trust, not random users. One qualified creator, Discord owner, newsletter writer, or fantasy community leader can bring more customers than 100 cold messages to people with no audience or no influence.

Qualification Rule

A prospect is only worth outreach when the audience fit, influence level, contact path, and compliance profile are all strong enough to justify the time. If the prospect does not have trust with a relevant audience, move on.

Target Priority Tiers

Tier	Who Belongs Here
Tier 1 - Creator Partners	Sports creators, streamers, YouTubers, TikTok accounts, podcasts, and newsletters with consistent sports/DFS/props/fantasy content and clear business contact information.
Tier 2 - Community Owners	Discord server owners, Facebook group admins, fantasy league commissioners, paid community managers, and creator communities that already discuss props, slips, fantasy, DFS, or analytics.
Tier 3 - Direct Audience Ambassadors	People with personal networks in sports, fantasy, coaching, training, or betting-adjacent communities who can promote professionally but do not control a large audience.
Tier 4 - Low Priority / Research Only	Random bettors, low-engagement accounts, spammy pick pages, accounts with no contact route, or creators with high compliance risk.

100-Point Prospect Scorecard

Score Category	Scoring Standard
Audience Fit - 25 pts	25 = audience regularly discusses sports props, DFS, fantasy, analytics, or picks. 15 = sports audience but weak props/DFS angle. 5 = general audience with limited sports relevance.
Engagement Quality - 20 pts	20 = active comments/chat and real audience response. 10 = some likes but little discussion. 0 = dead engagement or obvious bot engagement.
Influence / Trust - 15 pts	15 = creator recommendations clearly matter to the community. 8 = creator has reach but weak trust signals. 0 = purely reposts, no voice, no community.
Contactability - 15 pts	15 = business email/media kit/website/official marketplace. 8 = DM only but professional profile. 0 = no legitimate contact path.
Compliance Safety - 15 pts	15 = avoids guaranteed-win claims and has mature/adult audience. 8 = some risky language but workable. 0 = underage audience, illegal gambling framing, or scammy claims.
Content Consistency - 10 pts	10 = posts/streams weekly or more. 5 = occasional but relevant. 0 = inactive or inconsistent.

How to Use the Score

Score Range	Action
85-100	High-priority prospect. Research deeply, personalize outreach, and consider escalating for paid pilot review.
70-84	Good prospect. Send normal outreach and track follow-up. Consider fixed-fee discussion after response.

55-69	Research or secondary outreach only. Engage lightly first and do not spend too much time.
Below 55	Do not pitch. Use for market research only or skip entirely.

Best Targets

- Small-to-mid sports creators with a loyal audience.
- DFS pick accounts with consistent comments and discussion.
- PrizePicks, Underdog, DraftKings, FanDuel, and fantasy sports creators.
- Twitch and Kick streamers who discuss sports, fantasy, or sports games.
- Discord server owners and admins in sports/DFS/fantasy communities.
- Facebook group admins and fantasy league commissioners.
- Podcast hosts, newsletter owners, and YouTube Shorts creators.
- Creators who already post model-based, data-based, or analysis-focused content.

Avoid These Prospects

- Random individual bettors with no audience.
- Accounts that only spam picks and never build trust.
- Creators who promise guaranteed wins, locks, free money, or risk-free profit.
- Underage-looking audiences or youth-heavy communities for betting-adjacent content.
- Creators who ask for money before defining deliverables, proof, or audience fit.
- Channels with suspicious engagement, obvious bots, stolen content, or fake follower patterns.

SECTION 04 Sponsorship Packages, Compensation, and Business Plan

The sponsor conversation must sound like a business plan, not a favor request. Creators and streamers are not looking to do Atlas free labor. They care about compensation, audience fit, ease of setup, proof of legitimacy, and whether the campaign will make them look good to their community.

Creator Motivation

Most streamers sponsor brands for monetary gain, audience value, or both. Lead with a clean business structure: base fee potential, code upside, milestone bonuses, clear deliverables, proof of delivery, and renewal path.

The Four-Part Atlas Sponsorship Model

Part	Purpose
1. Fixed Fee	A pre-approved payment for agreed deliverables. This compensates the creator for time, audience access, and production effort.
2. Code Upside	25% of paid subscription sales tied to the creator code. This rewards performance and gives the creator ongoing upside during the campaign window.
3. Milestone Bonuses	Bonus payments tied to valid paid customer count. This gives creators a clear path to larger payouts without making the campaign vague.
4. Renewal Path	If the campaign performs, Atlas can renew, upgrade, or expand the partnership. This helps creators view Atlas as a long-term partner.

Sponsorship Package Menu

Package	Best Use
Affiliate / Ambassador Package	Use for creators or ambassadors who want performance-only upside. Includes custom code, 25% payout, milestone bonuses, portal access, and optional sponsor-page placement.
Starter Paid Pilot	Use for small-to-mid creators with relevant audiences. Includes one or two deliverables, fixed fee after approval, code upside, disclosure language, and proof of delivery.
Live Stream Sponsor Package	Use for Twitch/Kick creators. Includes live read, panel placement, chat command, code graphic, VOD timestamp, and optional Discord post.
Short-Form Creator Package	Use for TikTok, YouTube Shorts, Instagram Reels, and X. Includes one short video or post, code mention, link-in-bio window if negotiated, and proof link.
Community Partner Package	Use for Discord servers, Facebook groups, newsletters, and fantasy communities. Includes custom group code, admin-approved announcement, pinned resource, live Q&A, and performance reporting.
Premium Creator Package	Use only after approval. Includes fixed fee, code upside, milestone bonuses, sponsor-page placement, and possible content reuse rights if Atlas wants to use the creator content in ads.

Performance Payout and Bonus Structure

Global Code Payouts

$20/month customer signup = $5 one-time payout to the creator or ambassador.

$100/year customer signup = $25 one-time payout to the creator or ambassador.

The payout basis is 25% of the paid subscription sale connected to the code.

No payout is earned on free accounts, duplicate accounts, self-referrals, refunded accounts, chargebacks, fake accounts, or fraudulent activity.

Milestone Bonuses

25 valid paid customers = $100 bonus

100 valid paid customers = $500 bonus

250 valid paid customers = $1,500 bonus

1,000 valid paid customers = $5,000 bonus

2,000 valid paid customers = $10,000 bonus

Every additional 500 valid paid customers after 2,000 = $2,500 bonus

Deliverable Planning

Deliverable	Best Platform	Proof Required
Live sponsor read	Twitch, Kick, YouTube Live	VOD timestamp, clip, or screenshot
Panel or bio link	Twitch, Kick, TikTok, Instagram, YouTube	Screenshot and live URL
Chat command	Twitch, Kick, Discord	Screenshot and command text
Pinned comment / description	YouTube	Video link and screenshot
Short-form promo	TikTok, YouTube Shorts, Instagram Reels, X	Post URL and screenshot
Discord announcement	Discord community	Screenshot or announcement link if available
Newsletter mention	Substack, Beehiiv, private newsletter	Send copy or public archive link

How to Discuss Flat Fees

- Do not promise a fixed dollar amount until Atlas has approved the creator, budget, and deliverables.
- Ask for the creator rate card or media kit before negotiating.
- If the creator asks about money, say Atlas is open to approved paid pilots that combine a fixed fee with code upside.
- Explain that fixed fees are based on audience fit, deliverables, average views, engagement, and campaign scope.
- Never tell a creator they are guaranteed a flat fee simply for joining the program.

Flat Fee Response Template

Atlas does offer approved paid creator pilots for the right audience fit. The structure can include a fixed campaign fee plus 25% code upside and milestone bonuses. Before quoting a number, we would review your rate card/media kit, average views, audience fit, and proposed deliverables so the campaign is fair to both sides.

SECTION 05

Ambassador Workflow, Onboarding, and Daily SOP

A successful ambassador does not randomly message people all day. The correct workflow is research, qualification, outreach, follow-up, tracking, and handoff. This section defines the operating routine every ambassador should follow.

Ambassador Onboarding Flow

1. Apply through the Atlas Join Us page or approved intake flow.
2. Review the Ambassador Agreement, program rules, compensation structure, and disclosure expectations.
3. Complete identity/payment onboarding as required for payouts.
4. Create or receive a unique Atlas promo code or referral link.
5. Connect Stripe or the approved payout workflow.
6. Log into the Ambassador portal to view code, tracked signups, bonuses, and performance metrics.
7. Review this training manual and the approved messaging bank before outreach begins.
8. Begin with low-risk research and warm outreach before approaching higher-value creators.

Daily Ambassador Workflow

Step	Action
1. Pick the niche	Choose one focus for the day: PrizePicks NBA creators, fantasy football streamers, DFS Discords, YouTube prop channels, etc.
2. Pick the platform	Choose one platform so the outreach stays consistent. Do not jump randomly across five platforms at once.
3. Search and qualify	Use 5-10 search terms and score prospects before contacting them.
4. Find 15-25 prospects	Save the creator/community name, platform, contact route, niche, and notes.
5. Engage lightly	Like, follow, comment, or watch enough content to personalize the message. Do not spam links.
6. Send 5-10 quality messages	Short, human, specific, and permission-based. Ask where to send the brief.
7. Track every contact	Log date, message, contact route, response, status, and next action.
8. Follow up once	Follow up after 3-5 days. No pressure. If no response, move on.
9. Handoff serious prospects	Creators asking about fixed fees, contracts, or custom packages should be escalated to Atlas leadership.
10. Review results weekly	Double down on the niches, platforms, and messages that actually produce responses and signups.

Three Work Blocks Ambassadors Can Use

Time Available	What to Do	Goal
30 minutes	Search one platform, save 10 prospects, send 2-3 high-quality messages.	Build consistency without burnout.
60-90 minutes	Research 20 prospects, qualify 10, send 5-7 messages, log all results.	Standard daily workflow.
2-3 hours	Run a full platform sprint: research, engagement, outreach, follow-up, and reporting.	Best for serious ambassadors.

Weekly Operating Rhythm

- Monday: Select weekly niche focus and platform targets.
- Tuesday-Wednesday: Research and outreach to new prospects.
- Thursday: Follow up with interested prospects and send briefs where appropriate.
- Friday: Update tracker, review responses, identify warm leads, and report wins or blockers.
- Weekend: Watch streams, comment naturally, participate in communities, and gather new leads for next week.

When to Escalate to Atlas Leadership

- Creator asks for a flat fee or custom package.
- Creator asks for a contract, invoice, W-9, media kit review, or content usage rights.
- Creator has more than 10,000 highly relevant followers/subscribers or strong average live viewership.
- Community owner wants a paid server or group activation.
- Prospect asks compliance, legal, gambling, or platform-policy questions.
- Creator wants Atlas to sponsor an event, tournament, league, or recurring show.

SECTION 06

Compliance, Disclosure, and Brand Guardrails

Atlas growth cannot come at the expense of brand safety. Ambassadors must promote Atlas accurately, avoid misleading claims, respect platform rules, and use clear disclosures whenever compensation is involved.

! Non-Negotiable Rule

AtlasSports.AI is an informational and statistical analysis platform. It does not accept wagers, does not operate as a sportsbook, and does not guarantee outcomes. Ambassadors must keep that line clear at all times.

Required Brand Guardrails

- Do not say Atlas guarantees wins, profit, outcomes, slips, or betting success.
- Do not use terms like lock of the day, free money, risk-free, guaranteed profit, or can not lose.
- Do not represent Atlas as a sportsbook, gambling operator, daily fantasy operator, or betting app.
- Do not imply Atlas is affiliated with PrizePicks, DraftKings, FanDuel, Underdog, Sleeper, or any third-party operator unless Atlas has a written partnership.
- Do not target minors or underage-looking communities for betting-adjacent content.
- Do not hide paid relationships. If a creator earns money from a code, that relationship must be disclosed.
- Do not scrape contact lists, mass-message users through unauthorized tools, or bypass platform rules.

Approved Disclosure Examples

Creator Disclosure Language

I am an AtlasSports.AI sponsor and may earn a payout if you sign up with my code.

This stream includes a paid sponsorship from AtlasSports.AI.

Use my AtlasSports.AI code if you want to support the channel. I may earn from eligible paid signups.

#ad #sponsored #AtlasSportsAIPartner

Safe Language vs. Risky Language

Safe / Approved	Risky / Do Not Use
AI-driven sports intelligence	Guaranteed wins
Model-backed analysis	Lock of the day
Use data instead of guessing	Free money
Find the edge the market may miss	Risk-free profit
Informational and entertainment purposes	This will hit
Compare probability, confidence, EV, and trends	Bet this now
Atlas does not accept wagers	Atlas is a betting app

Platform Rule Awareness

Creators are responsible for using the branded-content or paid-partnership tools required by their platform. Ambassadors should remind creators to disclose sponsorships and should never advise them to hide the relationship.

Platform	Ambassador Reminder
Twitch / Kick	Creator should use required branded-content tools, visual disclosure, and/or verbal sponsor disclosure where applicable.
YouTube	Creator should disclose paid promotion and include clear sponsor language in the video, description, or pinned comment.
TikTok / Instagram	Creator should use platform paid-partnership tools or clear #ad / #sponsored language where required.
Discord / Facebook Groups	Admin or owner approval should come before posting promotional content.
Reddit	Use moderator-approved educational content or paid ads. Do not pay users for covert promotion.

Responsible Promotion

- Encourage responsible use of sports analysis tools.
- Do not pressure anyone to spend money they cannot afford.
- Do not frame Atlas as a financial solution, gambling advice, or legal advice.
- If someone asks about legality in their state or jurisdiction, tell them to verify local rules and use Atlas only where appropriate.
- When unsure, escalate the question to Atlas leadership before responding.

07

Outreach Psychology, Gate-Passing, and Anti-Scam Positioning

Creators and streamers receive constant fake sponsor messages, bot DMs, phishing attempts, and low-quality affiliate offers. Atlas outreach must look different immediately. The goal is to be specific, calm, transparent, verifiable, and respectful of the creator's time.

The Creator Mental Checklist

When a creator receives an outreach message, they are usually asking five questions before they ever think about the product:

1. Who is this person and are they real?
2. Why are they contacting me specifically?
3. Is this a paid opportunity or just affiliate spam?
4. What are they asking me to do?
5. Is this safe, legitimate, and worth my time?

How Atlas Should Pass the Gate

Do This	Why It Works
Use a real name and Atlas identity	Creators trust accountable people more than generic brand accounts.
Mention their actual content	Specificity proves the message is not a mass bot message.
Say if it is paid	Creators care about compensation. Do not bury the business value.
Ask permission to send the brief	A permission-based ask feels respectful and reduces scam suspicion.
Use official links only	Clean AtlasSports.AI links look safer than shorteners or random file links.

Avoid attachments first	Scammers often use attachments. Send a brief only after interest or use an official page.
Offer rate-card review	Serious creators expect professional negotiation, not vague promises.

Message Structure

The Five-Line Outreach Formula

1. Identity: I am [Name] with AtlasSports.AI.
2. Personalization: I found your [specific content] and your audience looks relevant.
3. Business offer: We are reviewing paid creator pilots / sponsor partnerships.
4. Structure: Fixed fee can be discussed after fit, plus tracked code upside and milestone bonuses.
5. Permission ask: What is the best email to send the one-page brief or rate-card request?

What Makes Outreach Look Like a Scam

- No real name or company identity.
- Generic "Hey creator" message with no content reference.
- Too much money promised too fast.
- Suspicious links, shortened links, or attachments in the first message.
- Pressure to respond immediately.
- Requests for login access, passwords, Discord admin, Twitch permissions, or YouTube access.
- Vague promises like "huge opportunity" without deliverables, payout, or next step.

Email Authentication and Deliverability

For serious creator outreach at scale, Atlas should send from an authenticated Atlas domain. This is an operational requirement, not an ambassador talking point. The Atlas team should ensure SPF, DKIM, and DMARC are configured before large-volume outbound campaigns. This improves trust, reduces spam filtering, and helps creators verify that the message is real.

Professional Signature Standard

Ambassador name

Title: Creator / Atlas Ambassador / Partnerships

AtlasSports.AI

Official website link

Optional: phone or booking link only after initial trust is established

Permission-Based Follow-Up

- Follow up once after 3-5 days if there is no response.
- Keep the follow-up short and pressure-free.
- Do not send more than one follow-up unless the creator replies.
- If the creator declines, thank them and close the conversation.
- If the creator asks for a rate card/media kit exchange, escalate the opportunity if needed.

Follow-Up Template

Hi [Name], quick follow-up on the AtlasSports.AI sponsor pilot. No pressure at all. If paid partnerships are open, I can send the one-page brief or review your rate card/media kit. If not a fit, I completely understand.

SECTION 08

Tracking, Reporting, KPIs, and Ambassador Metrics

What gets tracked gets improved. Ambassadors must log outreach activity so Atlas can see which niches, platforms, messages, and creator types actually produce paid signups. The goal is not busywork. The goal is a repeatable growth engine.

Minimum Tracker Columns

Column	Purpose
Date Found	When the prospect entered the pipeline.
Platform	Twitch, Kick, YouTube, TikTok, X, Discord, Reddit, Facebook, Instagram, etc.
Creator / Community Name	Exact name or handle.
Profile URL	Public page or business contact source.
Niche	Props, DFS, fantasy, sports analytics, sports gaming, community owner, etc.
Audience Size	Followers, subscribers, average views, server size, or average CCV if known.
Engagement Notes	Chat activity, comments, view consistency, audience tone.
Contact Route	Business email, website form, marketplace, DM, Discord ticket, modmail.
Score	Use the 100-point qualification score from Section 3.
Message Sent	Paste or summarize the message used.
Status	New, researched, contacted, replied, brief sent, negotiating, approved, declined, closed.

Follow-Up Date	When to follow up once.
Code Created?	Yes/no.
Deliverable Completed?	Yes/no with proof link.
Paid Signups	Number of valid paid customers connected to the code.
Revenue / Payout	Tracked sales, payout amount, bonus progress, and notes.

Pipeline Status Definitions

Status	Meaning
New	Prospect found but not scored yet.
Researched	Profile reviewed and scored. Contact path identified.
Contacted	First message sent.
Replied	Prospect responded but is not yet qualified or ready.
Brief Sent	One-page partnership brief or rate-card request sent.
Negotiating	Creator is discussing fixed fee, deliverables, or terms.
Approved	Atlas approved campaign, code, or ambassador account.
Active	Creator/ambassador is promoting and code is live.
Delivered	Required deliverable completed and proof received.
Closed - No Fit	Declined, no response after follow-up, or compliance issue.

Key Performance Indicators

KPI	What It Measures	Why It Matters
Qualified prospects found	Number of prospects above the minimum score threshold.	Shows quality of research.
Outreach sent	Number of first-contact messages sent.	Shows activity volume.
Response rate	Replies divided by messages sent.	Shows whether messaging and targeting are working.
Brief sent rate	Briefs sent divided by replies.	Shows whether replies are serious.
Approval rate	Approved partners divided by briefs sent.	Shows quality of lead handoff.
Activation rate	Partners who actually post or promote.	Shows whether onboarding is effective.
Paid signup conversion	Valid paid signups per creator/code.	Shows revenue impact.
Bonus progress	Paid customers toward each milestone.	Keeps partners motivated.
Retention / renewal rate	Partners who continue after the first campaign.	Shows long-term value.

Quality Over Volume

A high-volume ambassador who sends weak messages to poor-fit prospects can damage the brand. A lower-volume ambassador who finds qualified creators, uses the right route, and tracks cleanly is more valuable.

SECTION 09

Partnership Retention, Renewal, and Scaling Strategy

The best Atlas partnerships should not be treated as one-time posts. A creator who drives quality traffic can become a recurring sponsor, a community partner, a product feedback source, and a long-term public advocate. Retention begins before the first campaign launches.

The Renewal Path

Timeline	Action
Before launch	Agree on deliverables, disclosure, code/link, tracking method, proof of delivery, payout expectations, and renewal criteria.
Campaign week	Make sure creator has assets, code, link, talking points, and support. Do not disappear after the deal starts.
48 hours after deliverable	Confirm proof of delivery, check link/code, and thank the creator.
7-day review	Look at signups, audience response, comments, clicks if available, and objections.
30-day review	Decide whether to renew, upgrade, pause, or move the creator back to affiliate-only status.
60-90 day review	For strong creators, discuss recurring sponsorship, seasonal campaigns, co-branded content, or community activation.

How to Keep Creators Engaged

- Give them clean assets: graphics, talking points, code, and one-sentence explanations.
- Show them progress toward bonuses so the upside feels real.
- Feature strong creators on the Atlas sponsor section when appropriate.
- Send a short performance recap after campaigns.
- Ask for feedback on what their audience responded to.
- Offer better packages only when performance supports it.
- Keep communication professional and predictable.

When to Renew or Upgrade

Signal	Recommended Action
High paid signups and clean delivery	Renew and consider a larger package or recurring sponsorship.
Strong audience response but low signups	Test better messaging, landing page, or code placement before increasing spend.
Good creator but weak audience fit	Keep affiliate-only or pause until a better campaign angle exists.
Compliance concerns	Do not renew unless the issue is corrected and Atlas leadership approves.
No proof of delivery	Do not pay or renew until proof terms are resolved.
Creator asks for content reuse	Escalate. Usage rights must be written into the agreement before Atlas reuses creator content.

Seasonal Campaign Ideas

- NBA model launch pushes and playoff campaigns.
- MLB props rollout campaigns.
- NFL and fantasy football preseason pushes.
- Creator watch parties, live slate breakdowns, and model Q&A sessions.
- Discord community analysis nights.
- Short-form "not vibes, data" educational clips.
- Founding sponsor campaigns for early creators who join before major app milestones.

Final Ambassador Principle

Final Ambassador Principle

Build Trust First

The best ambassadors do not sound like sales bots. They sound like professionals who understand the creator economy, respect communities, and know how to present Atlas as a real business opportunity. Find the right audience, add value, be transparent, track everything, and protect the brand.

At the end of the day, ambassadors should be authentic, professional, and consistent. Have fun, be yourself, and remember that every message represents AtlasSports.AI.
